

Vacation Time Begins At Van Buren Point and Bay

Hundreds of Visitors Are Arriving at Resorts for the Fourth of July and Week-end, Hoping for Good Weather

Although the season for vacationists at Van Buren begins officially on July Fourth, many of the cottages have been occupied for a month or more. The weather has discouraged some visitors, and many long distance calls from Pittsburgh and vicinity have been received there during the past few days, with inquiries as to temperature.

The coming week-end will see many more families and guests arriving here.

Several improvements have been made throughout Van Buren. The roads have been resurfaced with gravel over a coat of oil and several have been scraped and levelled. New water pipelines were necessary in places where the winter damaged them. A. J. Andrews, whose duty it is to keep the resort livable, and several workmen have installed an emergency inlet in the pumphouse on Van Buren Point. This second inlet will be used in case of failure of the main water line.

The tennis courts are used daily when weather permits and are in charge of George Ellis Jones Jr., of Pittsburgh. A small fee is required for a month's membership.

Many private displays of fireworks are anticipated along the lake shore this year. Last year's plan of a community display, that worked successfully in the Bay, has been abandoned.
